1. Adelina Collette Pastissier

Submission	Description	Decision
New Name	Adelina Collette Pastissier	Forwarded

Submitter desires a feminine name.
Sound (Adelina Collette) most important.

Adelina is a Latinized form of the feminine given name Adeline. Adeline is found in "Feminine Given Names in Morlet, Étude d'anthroponymie picarde" by Aryanhwy merch Catmael (<http://www.ellipsis.cx/~liana/names/french/picardefem.html>), dated to 1256. Both Adeline and Adelina are found in "Histoire générale de Normandie" by Gabriel du Moulin, published in 1631 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=56JFAAAcAAJ>) as a historical literary name.

Collette is a feminine name found in "The Dictionary of Medieval Names from European Sources, Edition 2019, no. 1." s.n. Nicole, S.L. Uckelman, ed. (<http://dmnes.org/2019/1/name/Nicole>). It is found in this spelling in France between 1564 and 1572.

Pastissier is a surname found in Family Search records as the burial of Pierre Pastisier, 7 May 1649, Saint-Étienne, Toulouse, Haute-Garonne, France, 100700163. (<https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:QPJF-L4BR> ). This name is not from an accepted batch number, but images are provided. Based on those images, it is believed that the correct spelling is Pastissier. We ask for help from commenters to verify the spelling from the provided image, or assist in documenting this surname.

2. Aislinn Chiabach

3. Aněžka Liška z Kolína

Submission	Description	Decision
New Badge	(Fieldless) A fox's mask Or charged on the forehead with a fret coupé azure	Forwarded

Notes:

This should be registered as a joint badge with Gavin Kent (name registered April 2001 via the Outlands). This will be corrected for the external letter of intent.

4. Anéžka Liška z Kolína

Submission	Description	Decision
New Badge	(Fieldless) A fox's mask Or charged on the forehead with a lozenge vert	Forwarded

5. Caitriona ni Síodhacháin

Submission	Description	Decision
New Name	Caitriona ni Síodhacháin	Forwarded

New Device	Per chevron Or and purple, three violets one and two proper and a mortar and pestle Or	Returned
------------	--	----------

Notes:

This name was initially submitted as <Caitríona ni Síodhacháin>, using the post-period scribal abbreviation "ni" which is not registrable. The grammatically correct clan affiliation phrase for post-1200 is "inghean Ui". Additionally, when forming a clan affiliation byname, the ancestor's name must be put into the genitive, which would make the grammatically correct spelling Shíodhacháin. The submitter allows for all changes, and has approved the change to Caitríona inghean Ui Shíodhacháin.

This device is returned for violation of the unity of orientation/arrangement rules. Because the violets are on one side of the line of division and the mortar and pestle on the other, they are considered co-primary.

As drawn, the arrangement of violets has to be specified, while the mortar and pestle does not. Because both charges are inanimate, they must be able to be described as one unit, rather than having to specify the arrangement of the top half individually. Relevant precedent is discussed in SENA A3D2 (<http://heraldry.sca.org/sena.html#A3D2>) and the July 2019 Cover Letter (<http://heraldry.sca.org/loar/2019/07/19-07cl.html#6>.)

6. Eleanor mac Congaile

Submission	Description	Decision
New Name	Eleanor mac Congaile	Forwarded

New Device	Vert, a spool of thread pierced bendwise sinister by a needle and in chief three trefoils argent	Forwarded
------------	--	-----------

Eleanor is a feminine given name found in Withycombe s.n. Eleanor, dated to 1122. The name was introduced to England by Eleanor of Aquitaine (1122-1204) and made popular by Eleanor of Castile, queen of Edward I.

mac Congaile is a patronymic based on the genitive form of the masculine name Congal, which is found in "100 Most Popular Men's Names in Early Medieval Ireland" by Tangwystyl verch Morgant Glasvryn (<https://heraldry.sca.org/names/irish100.html>)

English and Gaelic name elements can be combined per SENA Appendix C.

Notes:

Submitted as "Eleanor mac Congaile", this name paired a feminine personal name with a patronymic meaning "son of", which is not permitted. "Women cannot use mac in Gaelic names because Gaelic bynames are literal; a woman cannot be anyone's son." [Gráinne Maccauley, 9/2017 LoAR, A-Meridies]

To correct this, the submitter has requested "Eleanor Mhic Congaill"

Mhic Congaill is a patronymic based on the genitive form of the masculine name Mhic Congail. The masculine name Congal is found in "100 Most Popular Men's Names in Early Medieval Ireland" by Tangwystyl verch Morgant Glasvryn (<https://heraldry.sca.org/names/irish100.html>).

Iago Coquille suggests the following rebazon, Vert, a spool of thread transfixd by a needle bendwise sinister, in chief three trefoils argent.

9. Jaimey of Ravensbridge

Submission	Description	Decision
New Name	Jaimey of Ravensbridge	Forwarded
New device	Per saltire sable and vert, five dragonflies in annulo	Forwarded

	argent

Notes:

Kingdom commentary was divided as to whether the emblazon depicts a clear "in annulo" arrangement of the charges, and whether there was a conflict with the registered device of Bríghid inghean Chonmhaoil (device registered April 2005 via the Middle): Per saltire vert and azure, four dragonflies argent.

We do feel that this emblazon meets all three standards set forth in the August 2019 Cover Letter. (<http://heraldry.sca.org/loar/2019/08/19-08cl.html#3>):

1. There are a minimum of five charges in the charge group
2. The charges form the appearance of an annulet, either solid or broken
3. Each charge is independently recognizable in both type and posture

We find two DC's between this submission and the device of Bríghid inghean Chonmhaoil.

There is a DC for changes to the tincture of the field (<http://heraldry.sca.org/sena.html#A5G1> ), and a DC for the number of charges in the primary charge group (<http://heraldry.sca.org/sena.html#A5G5> ).

Tayland is an English surname found in the Family Search Historical Records as the marriage of John Tayland, 10 Feb 1555, Lincoln, Lincolnshire, England, Batch M02576-1 (<https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:NL7D-Z6G>). New approved artwork:

Notes:

Kingdom commenters pointed out that the blazon did not match the emblazon. After consulting with the submitter, they have requested that the emblazon match the submitted blazon and have approved new artwork to be used for the external letter.

Alys Ogress pointed out that in the documentation for the Tangle Wylde, "Tangle" is a place name, and Wylde is a surname. This will be corrected in the summary used in the external letter.

This concludes the letter of internal kingdom decisions.
